

Peruzzi cut phenomenal diamond Pesas diamond Philip II Diamond

Contributed by Administrator
Sunday, 23 September 2007

Peruzzi cut. See peruzzi, vincenzio. Peruzzi, Vincenzo. A 17th century Venetian lapidary who is credited with first revealing the true beauty of the diamond by employing the brilliant form of cutting; i.e., with 56 facets, a table and a culet. Some-times referred to as the Peruzzi cut, it was an improvement over the earlier Mazarin cut. Pesas diamond. A misnomer for rock crystal. phenomenal diamond. A general term for any diamond that displays an unusual optical effect. See FLUORESCENCE, PHOSPHORESCENCE, FLUORO-CHROMATIC, TRANSICHROMATIC, PREMIER DIA-MOND. Phianite. Trade name for man-made cubic zirconia. Philip II Diamond. A 47.50-carat diamond, supposedly purchased by Philip II, of Spain, in 1559. Further details lacking. philosopher's stone. An imaginary stone, the use of which medieval al-chemists believed would transform flint into gold or into diamond and other precious stones.